Aima Martín

Biography

Aima Martín, born in Madrid in 1969, is a self-taught, multidisciplinary artist known for her exploration of human values through her work. Influenced by the philosophical teachings of her father and inspired by the surrealism of Salvador Dalí, Aima's art delves into the complexities of existence. Her creative journey spans various mediums, including painting, performance, and installation, where she incorporates unconventional materials like recycled glass and natural pigments.

Exhibitions & Artfairs

Aima Martín's work has been showcased in numerous solo and group exhibitions across Europe. Her art, which reflects a deep introspection and a connection to spiritual themes, has been featured in galleries from Valencia to London. Aima's unique style, combining surrealism with cubist elements, has captured the attention of international audiences, making her a notable figure in the contemporary art scene.

Artist's Statement

"My art is a journey into the essence of human existence, seeking to uncover and express the universal values that bind us together. Through a fusion of surrealism and mysticism, I use a range of materials and techniques to create works that challenge perceptions and invite reflection. Each piece is an exploration of the inner self and the external world, aiming to heal and transform both the creator and the viewer. My mission is to reveal the interconnectedness of all things and to remind us of the profound unity that exists within and around us."
